Session Title

Public-Private Cooperation: Unlocking the Investment Opportunity of Climate Action

Session Description

The event highlights how public and private entities can join forces to invest and scale game-changing climate technologies that can drive forward global climate action. This event, organized by the Ministry of Economy of Azerbaijan during COP29, addresses the urgent need to unlock climate business opportunities at industrial scale to support the global transition towards carbon neutrality. This aligns with the recommendations formulated by the B20 Finance and Infrastructure Task Force for the G20 Brazilian presidency, which emphasize the crucial role of governments in creating supportive policies and frameworks that incentivize private investment in climate solutions. This global effort builds on flagship initiatives such as the Paris Pact for People and Planet (4P), Bridgetown Initiative, Accra Marrakesh Agenda, G20 New Delhi Leaders' Declaration, African Leaders' Nairobi Declaration on Climate and Call to Action, the COP28 UAE Leaders' Declaration on a Global Climate Finance Framework. By fostering partnerships across sectors and leveraging the enabling mission set by COP29 presidency, this event aims to accelerate the global shift towards sustainable finance and support the implementation of transformative climate solutions, continuing the legacy of COP28 on the road to COP30.
